

William Havener MD
1924 - 1991

William Havener, MD, was the first full-time ophthalmologist at The Ohio State University College of Medicine. He was chair of the Department of Ophthalmology (1969-1981, 1982-1988). For four decades, he had a single mission - Ophthalmology. A distinguished teacher and internationally known author, Dr. Havener was an innovative and skillful surgeon, a thoughtful clinician and most of all, a considerate and caring physician. He was directly responsible for the training of over 200 ophthalmologists and thousands of medical students. Anyone who had the privilege of spending time with Dr. Havener, be it as a patient, resident, fellow ophthalmologist, or medical student, has come away richer for the experience.
